

OVERVIEW

Kathy J. Pedersen, MPAS, PA-C, embodies the opportunity all PAs have for social accountability, a providers' "obligation to direct their education, research and service activities towards addressing priority health concerns of the community, region and nation that they have a mandate to serve" (WHO, 1995). Kathy's commitment to finding sustainable strategies to address public health needs is a model of that accountability. Her efforts include promoting equitable care, launching train-the-trainer programs, bridging system gaps, advocating for the underserved, and developing resources for education and care.

The nccPA Health Foundation¹ is pleased to open the competitive 2025 cycle for the Kathy J. Pedersen Grant to Promote Equitable Care². PAs, PA students, and PA organizations (accredited educational programs or constituent organizations) may apply. The maximum award for this cycle is $5,000 and requested funding should not exceed $5,000.
